Appropriateness Questionnaire

You have provided us with an expression of interest in an investment that we have determined to be a complex financial instrument. Before we are able to accept this investment instruction and generate applications, we have to confirm your instruction and ensure the investment appropriate for you.

Your instruction will not be implemented until this form is returned, should this form be signed and returned we will generate applications for you to implement your proposed investment strategy, by returning the application we undertake the instruction as your decision to proceed.

Guide

The appropriateness test is required when you have directly requested to invest in a complex financial instrument. Assessing appropriateness is not the same as advising you on whether an investment is suitable for you. Carlton James Private & Commercial Ltd does not provide financial advice, you may wish to consider taking financial advice before investing in any complex financial instruments.

Based on the responses you provide in the questionnaire, we will determine whether you as a Trustee understand the risks associated with proposed investment. It allows us to determine, along with your expression of interest, your investor class and whether you have appropriate knowledge and experience to understand the risks associated with your proposed investment. If you fail to answer some or all of these questions, we will not be able to proceed with your investment instruction.

Definitions

What is a complex financial instrument?

a complex financial instrument is one that requires you to have a greater knowledge and experience of investments to fully understand the risks involved, below we have detailed examples of what we consider complex financial instruments:

- Exchange traded products
- Unregulated Collective Investment Schemes
- Structured Products
- Investments containing a derivative
- Units in a tax-exempt unauthorised unit trust

Non-complex financial instruments are:

- Shares
- Regulated Collective Investment Scheme
- Bonds
